

Spanish Day

ALISON RIHS / JUNIATIAN

Local high school students make "el papel picado" during Spanish Immersion Day on Oct. 27. This craft is a tradition in Mexico. Intricate designs are cut into tissue paper and displayed during the Day of the Dead. Immersion day also had student-designed board games, Spanish songs, and traditional Spanish cuisine.