

Montage for the Future

Lois Moses

(Office of Diversity and Inclusion Lecture Series, February 7, 2007)

Alone in my world of family and rapid transformation I can be whatever I want to be the music lifts my spirit and the dance is my song I am a woman of color on her journey to the sun then you came and left with my dreams and that was all I had I offered you my heart, devotion and newly found simplicity but you took the music and now my dance has no syncopation

I found myself in an empty room looking for me

I am devastated/confused by my loneliness and here you come again you are an intrusion

I don't want your promises anymore You've starved me of consideration

Crying in the darkness you wouldn't/couldn't see me

I only asked to be loved

I'm not losing a friend for my dance will continue on and now I've found some peace of mind
A PIECE OF MINE OWN!!
